Overview

The New Capital Investment Entrant Scheme (New CIES), launched on 1 March 2024, grants Hong Kong residence to investors who place HK$30 million: at least HK$27 million in permissible investment assets (listed equities, debt securities, eligible funds and, within caps, real estate) plus HK$3 million into the CIES Investment Portfolio. On formal approval you receive permission to stay for up to 24 months, extendable in periods of up to three years, with permanent residency after seven years of continuous ordinary residence.

Hong Kong, a leading Asian financial hub, offers world-class healthcare and education, low taxes, and excellent global connectivity, making it ideal for high-net-worth families and entrepreneurs.

Key points

- Live, work, and study in Hong Kong.
- Permanent residency after 7 years of continuous residence.
- Hong Kong permanent residency does not affect Indian citizenship; an HKSAR passport (visa-free or visa-on-arrival access to 170+ destinations) requires naturalising as a Chinese national, which does.

Hong Kong CIES Residency Program - Securities Investment

Hong Kong residence under the New Capital Investment Entrant Scheme: HK$30 million, with HK$27 million in permissible assets such as listed equities and qualifying debt securities, plus HK$3 million in the CIES Investment Portfolio.

From HKD 30,000,000

How the HK$30 million actually splits

The New Capital Investment Entrant Scheme, relaunched on 1 March 2024, is often quoted as a flat HK$30 million. It is really two components:

Component	Amount
Permissible assets of your choosing	HK$27 million
CIES Investment Portfolio, held with the Hong Kong Investment Corporation	HK$3 million

You must separately show net assets of at least HK$30 million throughout the six months before you apply — the investment and the net-asset test are two different requirements, and applications fail on the second more often than people expect.

What counts towards the HK$27 million

Permissible investment asset	Cap
Equities listed on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong, traded in HKD or RMB	No separate cap
Debt securities listed on the Stock Exchange, or issued or guaranteed by the HKSAR Government, the Exchange Fund, MTR Corporation, the Airport Authority or listed companies	No separate cap
Certificates of deposit in HKD or RMB with a maturity of at least 12 months	HK$3 million
Subordinated debt issued by authorised institutions	No separate cap
SFC-authorised funds, REITs, investment-linked assurance schemes and open-ended fund companies	No separate cap
Private open-ended fund companies and limited partnership funds	HK$10 million in aggregate
Real estate, residential and non-residential	HK$15 million in aggregate, of which residential at most HK$10 million

From 1 November 2026, financial assets count only if they are acquired through designated accounts.

Residential property: the rules changed twice

The position moved twice in under a year:

Date	Position
Before 16 Oct 2024	Residential property did not count at all
16 Oct 2024	Became permissible at a minimum price of HK$50 million , with a HK$10 million aggregate real-estate cap
17 Sep 2025 (2025 Policy Address)	Price threshold cut to HK$30 million ; aggregate real-estate cap now HK$15 million with a HK$10 million residential sub-cap

The current rules apply where purchase completion is on or after 17 September 2025. If your completion date is earlier, the older rules govern your case.

In practice, property can never be more than half the qualifying investment: at most HK$15 million of the HK$27 million can go into real estate, and at most HK$10 million of that into residential. A HK$30 million flat therefore contributes HK$10 million towards the requirement, and the balance goes into other permissible assets.

How the application runs

- 1. Net Asset Assessment with the New CIES Office at InvestHK, showing net assets of at least HK$30 million held throughout the preceding six months.
- 2. Approval-in-principle from the Immigration Department. You may then stay as a visitor for up to 180 days to complete the investment.

3. Formal approval, with permission to stay for up to 24 months, followed by extensions of up to three years each while the Portfolio Maintenance Requirements are met.
4. Permanent residency after seven years of continuous ordinary residence, with a declaration that Hong Kong is your place of permanent residence.

The New CIES Office does not publish a processing standard, so timelines vary by case. XIPHIAS confirms the current position before filing.

The talent routes, not just capital

- Top Talent Pass Scheme (TTPS) — Category A now grants a 36-month first visa for approvals from 16 October 2024, up from 24 months. Categories B and C remain 24 months, and Category C has a quota of 10,000 a year. The eligible-university list grew from 185 to 198 institutions on 1 November 2024.
- Quality Migrant Admission Scheme (QMAS) — the annual quota was eliminated on 1 November 2024. It was suspended for two years first, then removed.
- Vocational Professionals Admission Scheme — opens to applications from mid-2026, once the first graduates of eligible Higher Diploma programmes complete their studies. Its detailed criteria have not yet been published; XIPHIAS confirms the position with the Immigration Department before advising.

Why Hong Kong is different for an Indian passport holder

Of the main Asia-Pacific destinations, Hong Kong is the only one where the normal outcome never costs you your Indian citizenship.

Hong Kong permanent residency is not a citizenship. After seven years of continuous ordinary residence you become a permanent resident and get a Hong Kong permanent identity card — and you keep your Indian passport, because nothing has been renounced. Section 9(1) of India's Citizenship Act 1955 only bites when you voluntarily acquire another citizenship, and HKPR is not one.

The only step that would cost your Indian citizenship is separately naturalising as a Chinese national — a discretionary process that requires renouncing your foreign nationality anyway. Almost nobody on an investment or talent route does that.

Compare that with Singapore (citizenship two years after PR) and New Zealand (citizenship after 1,350 days over five years): both offer real citizenship, and taking it would end your Indian citizenship. Hong Kong gives you the long-term status without forcing that decision.

Questions clients ask

What is the CIES?

The New Capital Investment Entrant Scheme, a government scheme granting Hong Kong residence through a HK$30 million investment in permissible Hong Kong assets and the CIES Investment Portfolio.

Can family be included?

Yes. Spouse and dependent children can be included and receive residency with the main applicant.

Is physical presence required?

Not during application; residence is required to accumulate the 7 years toward permanent residency.

How long does it take?

The process runs in stages: Net Asset Assessment with the New CIES Office, approval-in-principle from the Immigration Department, up to 180 days as a visitor to complete the investment, then formal approval. The New CIES Office does not publish a processing standard, so timelines vary by case; XIPHIAS confirms the current position before filing.

Does residency lead to citizenship?

Hong Kong grants permanent residency, not citizenship, after seven years of continuous ordinary residence. Citizenship would mean naturalising as a Chinese national, a discretionary step that requires giving up your Indian citizenship.
